CURRENT EVENT OF THE WEEK

The Army Corps of Engineers discover 19 Revolutionary War cannons in Georgia’s Savannah River. The cannons are believed to be from a British ship that was deliberately sunk before a battle. By the time the dredging project ended in March, the corps had brought 19 cannons to the surface, all thought to be relics from ships sunk during the American Revolution, when the British occupied Savannah. Andrea Farmer, an archaeologist for the Savannah district of the Army Corps of Engineers, said the cannons were most likely from the HMS Savannah, one of several British vessels sunk in an area called Five Fathom Hole.
