Salon booth rental agreement template free

The salon booth rental agreement is a document between an owner of a business that provides the service of: cutting/coloring hair, cosmetics, massage, or any other related type that may be leased. The form may be structured to be month to month, week to week, or for a fixed term where the lessee may offer their services to the public through the lessor's business that they are operating. What is a Salon Booth Rental Agreement? A salon booth agreement is between a hair stylist that Once downloaded, the form will require the parties to fill out: The date of the agreement Name and address of the owner (lessor) Name and address of the renter (lessee) Street and address of the premises Approximate length and width of the space Term of the agreement Fixed rental amount Use of premise Equipment and personal property provided by the lessor Real estate taxes State of governing law How To Use a Booth Salon Rental Agreement There are two perspectives to consider when analyzing the usage of the Booth Rental Agreement: the lessor and the lessee. From a lessor's point of view, the agreement is to be used to define what rental payment, equipment, and timeframe are to be expected as part of the agreement. It is incredibly important to be thorough when establishing the rules for the lessee from the onset. If the form is completed haphazard, the lessee will have legal grounds to ask for more time, space, and equipment moving forward. From a lessee's point of view, the agreement is critical for establishing a rental rate. If the lessee fails to agree on rent with the lessor, the lessor stands to increase the rental rate as they see fit. Like the lessor, the lessee should take care to establish every utility, equipment piece, and resource they may be using during their time there. How to Rent a Booth In most salons, the owner rents the booths in order to motivate the hair stylists to promote their services. The rent is commonly in the form of a dollar figure ($) plus a percentage (%) of their gross sales. Although this can be a lucrative venture for the owner, he or she must be careful about who they intend on hiring. Step 1 – Find a Qualified Hair Stylist When looking for the right hair stylist, it's best to make a job listing on the following websites: Indeed.com SimplyHired.com Glassdoor.com It's best to keep job history and past experience a top priority for any new hire. Generally speaking, a new hair stylist will not have the confidence or clientele to be able to afford a salon booth. Step 2 – The Interview Process When sitting a potential tenant (hair stylist) it's best to understand their list of current clients and why they are not currently cutting hair. The best candidates the owner will be looking for are hair stylists with lots of clients that they can easily transfer to the new salon. Collect Background Information The owner of the salon should collect a resumé from the applicant and have them complete a standard job application. This will allow the owner a chance to find out the background of the individual. In order to make a deal with a hair stylist, the owner must ask if they would be interested in a salon booth rental arrangement. In other salons, when the owner is promoting the business themselves, usually the hair stylists get 50% of their revenues. Under a salon booth agreement, the hair stylist can earn more money by paying a monthly set amount and/or a small percent (%) of gross revenue. This gives the owner the security that their booths will be rented with qualified individuals. Step 3 – Lookup Background Information If the applicant did not complete the standard job application, he or she will need to give consent through the background check authorization form. Once consent is given, the owner may begin conducting a background check through one (1) of the following: AccurateNow ($24.95) GoodHire ($29.99) HireRight ($39.95) All of these services will give a basic check of criminal history, sex offender search, and court records search (limited by county). Add-ons are available which allows additional queries for their professional licenses, education verification, and DMV records. Step 4 – Make Sure He or She is Licensed It's best for the owner of the hair salon to make sure the individual they allow to cut hair is licensed within the State. All 50 States have databases for professionals that can be searched by the public. Search Licensed Hair Stylists – By State Step 5 – Negotiate the Terms of an Agreement After a hair stylist has been approved by the owner the time for negotiations begin. The main item is the monthly rent. If the hair stylist can prove they have a sufficient client list, there is a chance the owner may offer to decrease the rent in the hope other hair stylists at the salon will pick up more business. Once the details of the rent are established, the rest of the agreement is much easier to go through. Step 6 – Taking Occupancy Once the first (1st) month's rent is paid along with any security deposit, the owner should get access to the premises on the start date of the agreement. The newly hired hair stylist will be able to perform their services out of the salon and continue until the agreement ends. Sponsored Links Sponsored Links Fillable Template Rich Text Format (.rtf) Word (.doc) The Salon Booth lease agreement allows a person, usually a hair stylist, to use a booth at a hair salon or spa as an independent contractor. Rent is usually paid on a weekly basis in the beginning and then be turned into a formal month to month once seniority has been established. The owner may setup the agreement in two main ways: 1. Base plus Percentage – If the salon is an established business the owner will typically want to charge a base rent plus a commission or percentage of the individual's gross earnings minus tips. 2. Base Rent – The owner only charges the individual a fixed payment and allows any and all income produced from the booth to be kept by the lessee. This is common for individuals with experience or for a salon that is just starting out.
