FIRST AID ON THE BEACH!

It was a calm morning in the beautiful seaside town of Sharm El Sheikh, Egypt. Twenty-year-old Tariq Zaid, a tourist from Libya, was floating peacefully 150 metres from the shore when he felt something push him. 'I didn't know what it was,' he told reporters. 'I thought perhaps my airbed had hit a piece of wood. Then it pushed even harder and I fell into the water. That's when I saw it was a shark.'

He was trying to swim away when the shark bit his arm. Tariq, who was losing a lot of blood and thought he was about to die, screamed as loud as he could.

'I was praying to Allah to save me,' he said, 'when some dolphins swam up and frightened the shark away. There were at least six of them and they made a circle around me. The shark couldn't get near me.'

Coastguard Jamal Elalawi heard Tariq's screams and rescued him by boat. While he was giving Tariq first aid on the boat, his partner, Ahmed Al Masri, called the emergency services.

An ambulance was waiting for Tariq on the shore and he was immediately taken to the hospital at Sharm El Sheikh.

'It was the most frightening day of my life,' Tariq told reporters from his hospital bed. 'That shark wanted to have me for breakfast, but the dolphins saved me, thank Allah.'

Vocabulary Tip: Phrasal verbs

- Phrasal verbs are formed when a preposition (e.g., up/down/off) is added to a verb and creates a new verb (e.g., pick up/give up). Sometimes the new verb has a similar meaning, but sometimes it is very different.

I'll pick you up at half past seven. (= fairly similar to the verb pick)

He gave up smoking when he got ill. (= very different meaning from the verb give)
