Subseries B contains photographs and visual materials that do not fit neatly into the other subject categories for the Chicago City-Wide Collection. The documentation covers a range of urban administration including such areas as cultural affairs, emergency management, health, housing, public works, recreation, sanitation and water management. The available materials were created by City departments as well as by outside organizations and individuals who studied or collaborated on the public policy and services. The materials available in the Municipal series reflect the nature of small transfers and donations of selected materials and represent only a portion of the total publications created by substantial government agencies and other civic organizations. Additional resources and publication years might be found in the Municipal Reference and Government Publications division of Chicago Public Library or in repositories that hold collections for the various independent commissions and groups that analyze public issues.

Additionally, the names of various City departments have changed over the years. The agency name listed here is the one that appears on the document. Hence, researchers looking at the Department of Water Management may also want to consult alternative historical names or agencies with related functions such as Metropolitan Water Reclamation District of Greater Chicago and Water Works. Series 11 is organized into 2 subseries: Subseries A: Documents, , undated and Subseries B: Photographs and Graphic Materials, , undated. Subseries A contains a wide variety of manuscripts and publications related to government and municipal agencies along with public utilities.

The documentation includes booklets, brochures, flyers, guides, histories, maps, newsletters, ordinances, pamphlets, programs and reports. C4C7 , and a small selection of documents related to the Chicago Conference on Home Front Unity that was convened to examine interracial relations. The State of Illinois also produced a similar report Box , Folder These documents were transferred from the History and Travel Division of the Chicago Public Library, where they were stored in one binder. Oversize material consists primarily of wards and precinct maps created by the Board of Election Commissioners, permits issued with blueprints by the Department of Public Works and land use and redevelopment maps issued by various agencies.

Subseries A is arranged alphabetically by the name of the agency or, in the case of articles about some aspect of government, by author or title. Subseries B contains a combination of negatives, photographs, postcards, stereographs, and printed images taken from disbound volumes of Chicago: Souvenir Album of Chicago and the Columbian Exposition , , The materials consist of brochures, catalogs, flyers, guides, pamphlets, and posters. An important item in this small series is the invitation to the opening of the Field Museum of Natural History. Series 12 is organized into two subseries: Subseries A: Documents, , undated and Subseries B: Photographs, circa circa s. Series 13 brings together documents and images created by and about parks and recreational spaces in Chicago.

The most important items in this series are a collection of 19th century Annual Reports of the South Park and West Chicago Park commissions, tracing some of the earliest developments of the Chicago park system. Subseries A contains a variety of resources on created by or about the Chicago Park District and other similar recreational spaces. The documents include articles, booklets, flyers, guides, maps, programs and reports.

Each map delineates the legal history of the park shown. Original Map numbers have been maintained. The maps in Subseries B retain the original map numbers that were assigned alphabetically by park name. The missing Map numbers correspond to works that were not included with the transfer of these works. Subseries C contains a combination of negatives, photographs, postcards, stereographs, and printed images taken from disbound volumes of Chicago: Souvenir Album of Chicago and the Columbian Exposition , , and Photographic Views: West Chicago Parks , Series 14 contains resources related to historical residences of wealthy and successful Chicagoans along with selected materials on other Chicago housing options.

Significant materials in this series include a brochure on the Mies van der Rohe-designed N. Lake Shore Drive buildings, as well as printed promotional material on other important Chicago residences and a few general articles on housing. Series 14 is organized into two subseries: Subseries A: Documents, , undated and Subseries B: Photographs and Graphic Materials, circa , undated. Subseries A contains advertisements, articles, brochures, landmark submissions and listing booklets for selected Chicago homes and housing arrangements. The residences are arranged alphabetically by street name, property name or realtor name. The articles about housing are interfiled alphabetically by title. The bulk of the photographs in Subseries B depict the residences of some significant Chicago families. Wrightwood, Lincoln Park, July June This was the home of Joseph C.

The photographs were taken by professional photographer Martin J. Series 15 contains covers a range of educational institutions from elementary and secondary schools, colleges, universities and private organizations that offer instruction to the organizations and persons that develop curriculum, plan and operate institutions; and the Paris Exposition of exhibition of Chiago Public School student artwork. The materials include catalogs, fact sheets, lawsuits memos and opinions, pamphlets, photographs, qualifying exams and reports. Subseries A includes materials related to education as a practice. Box 60, Folders Documentation includes articles, booklets, fact sheets, lawsuit materials, newsletters, qualifying exams, and reports. Subseries A is arranged alphabetically by the name of an organization or subject. Articles not created by an organization are listed alphabetically by title. Subseries B contains a wide range of resources on individual schools and other organizations that offer classes and learning opportunities in Chicago.

Documentation includes brochures, catalogs, flyers, handbooks, newsletters, programs, and yearbooks. Some of the individual schools are part of the Chicago Public School system. Subseries C is comprised of drawings created by Chicago Public Schools students that were exhibited at the Paris Exposition of and earned the Highest Recognition as well as additional awards for the Buffalo Exposition and Charleston Exposition.

Artist names are listed when known and subject of the paintings noted. Subseries C retains the numerical listing associated with the exhibit. Subseries D contains views of educational institutions along with students and faculty. The series is comprised of articles, guides, maps, news clippings, pamphlets, photographs, and planning documents. The bulk of the material on streets consists of Chicago street maps and guides from the s to the s. Most of these are located in oversize folders. Subseries A contains articles, guides, maps, news clippings and plans related to Chicago streets.

The maps and guides are arranged alphabetically by title. The other documents are interfiled alphabetically by title or agency. Subseries B contains articles, brochures, maps, news clippings, plans, and studies about notable Chicago thoroughfares. Subseries C contains views of specific Chicago streets as well as broad street views from various perspectives. The formats include negatives, photographs, postcards, prints made of paintings by Jack Simmerling, stereographs, and printed images taken from disbound volumes of Chicago: Souvenir Album of Chicago and the Columbian Exposition, Series 17 contains a variety of sources including annual reports, articles, booklets, brochures, broadsides, guides, histories, maps, newsletters, pamphlets and photographs related to transportation within as well as to and from the city.

The means and methods of transport include air, bicycle, freight tunnel, mass transit, motorcar, railroad and water. Series 17 is arranged into two subseries: Subseries A: Documents, , undated and Subseries B: Photographs and Graphic Materials, , undated. The bulk of the contents relate to mass transit and railroads. Of note are a series of publications concerning the problems surrounding the formation of the Chicago Transit Authority CTA and the attempt to construct subway railroads in Chicago.

Subseries A is arranged alphabetically by method of transport Air, Bicycle, Bridge, Freight Tunnel, Mass Transit, Motor, Railroad or Water and then alphabetically within by agency or title of the document. Subseries B contains photographs and graphic representations related to transportation within as well as to and from the city. The bulk of the images relate to mass transit and railroads. Subseries B is arranged alphabetically by method of transport Air, Bicycle, Bridge, Freight Tunnel, Mass Transit, Motor, Railroad or Water and then alphabetically within by agency or title of the document. Series 18 contains souvenir viewbooks and visual guidebooks to Chicago spanning to A small number of viewbooks highlight Chicagoans who were considered notable at the time of publication.

These booklets contain figures such as mayors, religious leaders and successful businessmen. This series of wartime scrapbooks was transferred from the Logan Square Branch Library. Other materials include booklets, newsletters, photographs, promotional materials and ration books. The images were presumably prepared from building designs to be used for publicity while the fairgrounds were being constructed.
