

4MOST NEWSLETTER - AUGUST 2019

In this month's newsletter, we further explore not only the importance of data but the quality thereof and how growing businesses are increasing their scope of digital transformation efforts to improve visibility, speed, and insight. Two articles are dedicated to this subject matter and make for interesting reading.

As a company, we pride ourselves on partnering with our clients from the very beginning to gain a full understanding of their business processes whilst sharing our expertise and remaining with them as they grow. Adding value to our clients' businesses is of utmost importance which is why we nurture a customer centric and team enabled culture.

Sharing our clients' success stories around how SAP Business One from 4most has added value to their business has been a keen focus of ours. Bumbo International is one such client who has recently shared their success story and is featured in this newsletter.

Should you wish to share your story on how SAP Business One from 4most has added value to your business, please let us know.

Bridge The Trust Gap In Your Business Data Once And For All

While companies are awash in business data, turning that data into meaningful insight remains a major challenge. Critical business data is often siloed off in remote systems. To make it useful to the business, data often has to be duplicated into a business-reporting system, which creates new opportunities for data errors and latency. This is especially true for transaction data that often must be processed through a separate reporting system for analysis.

Finance Sets A Foundation Of Intelligent Transformation For Growing Businesses

The pace of technology innovation is undeniably moving faster, growing more intelligent, and becoming inescapable. With each advancement, midsize companies are expanding the scope of their digital transformation efforts – from integrating technology into their business to fundamentally changing their workplace culture, organizational operation, and customer experiences.
